Part XIII Supplemental Information (continued)

Pt II, Line 5: .

Pt II, Line 5: Description of the Organization's monitoring and inspection of easements is as follows:

Pt II, Line 5: Easements are inspected and monitored in several ways. First the Alliance does an inspection of all easements at least every two years and for many easements an inspection is done every year. Letters are sent to property owners indicating the results of the inspection, with comments on any maintenance that needs to be done. In cases where such maintenance is required, the Alliance re-inspects the property at least the following year and often sooner, depending on the seriousness of the maintenance issue. Second, most property owners seek confirmation that the easement is in good standing at the time of a sale of the property. The Alliance inspects the property at that time to determine whether the easement is in good standing or not and provides a letter accordingly. Third, from time to time property owners come to the Alliance with proposed alterations. We review those plans to determine whether they are consistent with the easement. Fourth, occasionally property owners seek a permit for alterations without coming to the Alliance first, and, if the property is in an historic district or listed on the Philadelphia Register may go directly to the Historical Commission for approval. We have provided the Historical Commission with a list of properties with easements so that they can notify us, and we also review the Historical Commission agenda each month to see if there are any easement properties on the agenda.
